Vance AFB Launches Air Force Utility Allowance (UA) Program for Residents

Vance AFB has launched the Air Force Utility Allowance (UA) Program for Active-Duty residents as of May 2026. This DoD-led initiative supports energy conservation goals while promoting responsible energy resource use, which will help reduce operating costs and protect the environment.

The transition includes a three-month mock billing period from June through August 2026, allowing residents to become familiar with the program before live billing begins in September 2026. Under the UA Program, residents may receive rebates for using less than the monthly baseline or incur additional charges if usage exceeds it.

Residents are encouraged to learn more by visiting the dedicated Air Force Utility Allowance (UA) program website, www.HuntMilitaryCommunities.com/Resident-Utility-Program, for additional details and resources. Stay tuned for more information on an upcoming town hall where additional program details will be shared.

Energy Efficient Maintenance Tips

- Change Air Filters: Replace HVAC filters every 1–3 months to ensure the system runs efficiently.
- Clear Vents: Ensure all air vents and registers are clean and not blocked by furniture.
- Update Lighting: Replace incandescent bulbs with LEDs or CFLs to reduce lighting energy consumption by up to 75%.
- Unplug "Vampire" Electronics: Use power strips to turn off electronics fully when not in use, as they draw power even when turned off.
